Hockey Notes

Coleman and Frank clash on January 2nd, 1911. This is the first game of the league series and no one should miss it.

A. I. Blais has been appointed secretary for the league association.

Blairmore's lineup was either not in form or the players were really amateurs, when they ran amuck on Monday afternoon. The game was one long series of fast shots on Blairmore's goal. Score at final time was 21 to 2. We are much pleased to learn that Blairmore will have a better aggregation of players for the league series. If not it would be all Coleman as the present outlook promises it will be.

Council Meets

The council met in the council chamber, on Monday, Dec. 26th, at 11 A. M. The meeting was called to appoint a Medical Health Officer.

Two names were proposed, viz. Drs. A. E. Porter and Ross. A ballot was then taken and the vote stood, Dr. Porter 4; Dr. Ross 3. Dr. Porter was declared appointed Health Officer for the year 1911. Several cases of contagious diseases have already been reported.

Councillor James brought up the question of the photograph of the council. He stated that the recent photos made his face flat. Several humorous replies were made, one being that four "change of breaths" would bring on a radical change. It was finally decided to have a new set of photos.

Everything has been arranged at the Eastern Townships Bank for the receiving of subscriptions for the Fred Alderson fund. We hope the response is worthily met.

STOMACH TORTURE

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" BROUGHT RELIEF

Lord Robert Cecil, who has started Church of England people by proposing that in future incumbents should hold office only for a short term of years, as a kind of probationary period, gave a press representative a full explanation of his scheme for Church reform.

Lord Robert, who was at his country house at Chelwood Gate, asked me to make it plain that he had no intention to attack the clergy, says the writer.

"I regard them, collectively, as a most admirable body of men, he said, 'and they have done and are doing, splendid work.'

"In suggesting that an incumbent should be appointed for a term of, say, five years, I do not intend that the presentation of the patron should be interfered with, or that the institution by the bishop should be abandoned.

"If, however, the clergyman is not satisfactory in any respect, the parish to which he is presented the bishop should, I think, be empowered to refuse to institute him.

"In arriving at a decision on this point, I would have the bishop take into consideration any representations made to him by the parishioners, who ought to have a church council to represent them.

"At present there is nothing which the laity can do to any effect, and that is why there is not so much interest in the church councils as there ought to be.

"Power to appeal to the Archbishop should also be allowed to the council in certain cases. The bishop might hold strong views on some ecclesiastical matters, and refuse an institution which the laity might be inclined to make. I would, therefore, like to have an appeal to a higher court against any abuse of the power.

"On the other hand, the clergyman should not be too much at the mercy of the people. A man might be objectionable to a parish at first, but on no fault of his own, but simply because he tried to do his duty better than his predecessor. In such a case, a five years' tenure would be sufficient either to win the good-will of the people or to prove that the clergyman was not suited to the parish.

"The object of my scheme is principally to provide some remedy against 'stump-breakers', the negligent, incompetent quarrelsome, or in-firm among the clergy.

"There are 12,000 or more incumbents in the Church, and that is too large a number to hold complete freehold of office.

"I do not give such tenure to any other class of people except the judges of the High Courts, and they are, theoretically, capable of removal on petition.

"As to the situation of a man whose institution was refused at the end of the five years, it is possible that he might find another field for his labors.

"I thought it to be a system of clergy pensions, so that when a man was not instituted through no fault of his own but because he was too firmly fixed in his place beyond the danger of want.

"The dioceses should be broken up and rearranged so that there should be a bishop for every county and for each of the great towns. That is not an extravagant idea, and the Church should be able to pay them suitable salaries. We must have cheaper bishops."

Lord Robert Cecil's Reform For the Anglican Church.

DOCTORS FAILED

Suffered Several Years With Kidney Trouble, "Peruna" Cured Me.

Mr. John N. Watkins, 3123 Shenan 40th Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes: "Among all the great advertised medicines for kidney and bladder trouble I have used I find that 'Peruna' is the only one which has cured me. I suffered for several years with kidney trouble, and I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated at first, but it grew so that it was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced years. I took 'Peruna', hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but found to my relief that I soon began to mend. The irritation gradually subsided, and the urinary troubles passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meals, sleep soundly, and am at all times in the best of health. I give all praise to 'Peruna'."

Weak, Sickly Babies Make Home Wretched

No home is happy where there is a sick baby. The sufferings of the little one makes the whole household wretched, for what mother or father would not rather suffer themselves than to see their little one suffer. But there is no reason why a mother should have to see her baby suffer, because baby is ill. Baby's Own Tablets will cure all the minor ills of babyhood and childhood; not only that, but an occasional dose of the Tablets will keep baby well. Thousands of mothers have found happiness through the Tablets, making their little ones well and happy. Among them is Mrs. C. O. Roe, of Georgetown, Ont., who writes: "I heartily recommend Baby's Own Tablets as a help to the baby during the hot summer season. We have used them with much pleasure and with their results." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Fish Festival.
There were harvest festivals in many churches, but it was left to an ancient London city church to do something unique. Large quantities of fish were among the harvest offerings at St. Magnus the Martyr, near London Bridge. The church is situated immediately proximately to Billingsgate Fish Market, and this accounted for the unusual nature of the gifts.

WARRANT FOR CONDUCTOR.

Wanted for Stealing Fares and Selling Tickets.

(From Montreal Gazette.)
Judge Lanctot, at the request of the crown prosecutor, has issued a bench warrant for the arrest of E. Smith, a former sleeping-car conductor in the employ of the Canadian Pacific railway, who at one time ran between Montreal and Vancouver, and latterly between Montreal and Toronto.

Early in October information reached the crown authorities which led up to Smith's arrest for stealing sleeping car fares, and for selling and passing railway tickets to various persons in Montreal and elsewhere. Smith had been previously arrested, and was committed for trial to the Court of King's Bench, his case being set for the 10th. When called, he failed to appear, with the result that his bail was forfeited and a bench warrant issued for his arrest.

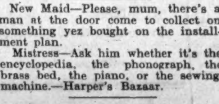

The case caused a good deal of interest in railway circles, and it is probable that other than railway people will be greatly interested, as the names and addresses of quite a number of people with whom he has been doing business are known, and it is likely that before the matter is finally disposed of several of the hunters for bairns in railway transportation will be well acquainted with him.

"It is really too bad," said a high official of the Canadian Pacific, "that the travelling public should be made to suffer by offering them facilities and inducements to do so, it would be better for them in every way. We have the names of a good many men who have done this in Montreal and other places and they include some pretty prominent men. Morally they are as guilty, if not more so, than the conductors whom they train to be honest, and the practice of trying to get this cheap transportation at the expense of the company and the honesty of the conductors cannot be too sharply represented."

"In the present instance it has led to the ruin of a young man and the breaking up of his home. While we are sorry for those who suffer by it, the company must stop this business of stealing fares, and prosecution will follow in every instance that is discovered."

A "PERFECT BEAST."

Marquis of Normandy's Experiences With an Over-Bright Youngster.

The Marquis of Normandy, Britain's only clerical marquis, who has been some years in the world, is a young man, a Conemara, has not only distinguished himself as a scholar, but, as is well-known, he was regarded by his schoolmasters in the county. Of his life as a schoolmaster Lord Normandy once told an excellent story against himself. One day, while expounding the mysteries of the Creation, he asked one of his pupils if he could tell him the difference between himself and a tiger, meaning, of course, the difference in the scale of nature. After some hard thinking the boy, who is now a prominent politician, replied, "A tiger, my lord, is an imperfect beast; but you are a perfect beast. A wealthy lady once wrote Lord Normandy stating that she intended to place her boy under his care, and concluded her letter by asking if his lordship was particular about the social position of his pupils and their parents, as she and her husband desired that their boy should move only in the best circles. To this highly interesting epistle the marquis replied, 'Madam, as long as your son conducts himself well and pays due attention to his work, I shall make no inquiries as to the antecedents of his parents.' The first Marquis of Normandy was a statesman and diplomat in the last century. Besides holding the office of Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in 1836, he was Ambassador to Paris from 1846 to 1852. The Marquis has a large family, and is well as distinguished family, for the second Lord Mulgrave made an attempt to find the northeast passage to the East Indies, and was one of his midshipmen. The Irish Lord Cancellor, above mentioned, was also one of his midshipmen. The Marquis is one of the finest manors in the country. The view from the lawn is so magnificent that it is said that Dickens literally danced with delight at its beauty. Lady Normandy is a keen gardener and specially interested in roses and carnations. Those who know Mulgrave Cae will remember a big rose tree in front of the house. It is reputed to be the best in England.

A Premature Thank-Offering.

Viscount Halifax is himself erecting a memorial to King Edward VII., in the form of a large cross, outside the main entrance to his demesne near the town of Metropoli. The Marquis is seventy-one years old, the son of Sir Charles Wood, who filled nearly every high post in the Empire except the Premiership. Lord Halifax has been president of the English Church Union for forty-two years, and last year, it will be remembered, he was presented by the Union with his portrait, an address from 1,400 subscribers, and a diamond jubilee silver gift. The latter is used in his library as a presiding angel at his meals. At the time Lord Halifax was kept busy issuing contradictions that he was about to "go over to Rome."

To Oregon and California

The First Annual Excursion from Western Canada to Oregon and California will take place in January, 1911, the special train to leave Spokane, Washington 10 P. M. on Tuesday, January 17th.

The features which will contribute so entertainingly to its success and impress the event permanently in the memory of all who participate, may be briefly reviewed here for the benefit of those who have never traveled over this most interesting and famous world highway.

Soon after daylight following the night of departure the excursion train enters the famous gorge of the Columbia River through the Cascade range, and for two or three hours its serpentine trail is long the base of stupendous cliffs and mighty mountain barriers, with the majestic river just below.

Columbia river scenery in the Cascade Gorge is justly celebrated. It may not be as heroic as the Canadian Rockies, nor as awful as the chasm of the Colorado, but it is grand in a high degree and furnishes many a masterpiece of the sublime in nature.

Portland is reached about 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and until 10 P. M. the excursion party is busy touring and visiting. Luncheon at the Hotel Portland. The trolley trip to Council Crest and the magnificent spectacle of a half dozen noted snow-covered peaks punctuating the distance horizon, is a feature reserved exclusively to Portland.

Dinner at the Portland Commercial Club is followed by reception at which the Club is host, and the good fellowship exchanged is delightfully entertaining.

The daylight hours of the third day are spent in the Rogue River Valley, Southern Oregon, crossing the Siskiyou and gliding down the upper reaches of the Sacramento Canyon. Brief stops at Grants Pass, Medford and Ashland, and exchange of greetings with representatives of people who have made the Rogue River Valley famous for its fruits, help to emphasize the good cheer and cordiality that mark the entire trip.

The scenery is highly picturesque from daylight until long after dark, but particularly so crossing the Siskiyou and down the Sacramento. Mount Shasta, one of the noted peaks of Western America, whose icy summit is nearly three miles above the sea (14,380 feet), is the imposing and absorbing feature of the day from the moment of descent on the southern slope of the Siskiyou.

Shasta Springs and environment, though not viewed by daylight, will nevertheless be interesting. It is probably the foremost mountain retreat of the Pacific Coast, and the wonderful mineral spring which it is famous is housed in a concrete kiosk in the bed of the canyon within a few feet of the railroad track. No train passes Shasta Springs without stopping, and the scene is invariably marked by passengers crowding around the fountain to partake of its cold, sparkling, effervescent waters.

The fourth day is given to San Francisco. While the schedule provides for a sight-seeing tour in the afternoon, many will choose to employ the time otherwise, and are free to do so.

The best hockey game of the season will be played on Monday night, Frank vs. Coleman.

Should Arbitrate

Only one event in the year 1911 can mar the progress of Coleman. That is a cessation from labor at the mines. While we are in the midst of the festive season and speak with pride of the "Peace and goodwill to all" should we not consider and ponder over coming events.

The great coming blessing to all the nations of the world is arbitration. It virtually means "Peace and goodwill to all." In a smaller or lesser degree we can arbitrate our camp disputes that can perform be suitable to all.

Every arbitration court should settle definitely for a stated time, all outstanding disputes. Each contracting party should feel that either is willing to give and take in the final.

The increased cost of living is harassing the question stronger every year. Where men with families in former years could live on a wage, today they cannot. The readjustment of wages is a difficult question but must be boldly met. On the other hand the cost of mining operations goes steadily upward as well.

The Miner believes that unprecedented harmony will prevail this year. We know full well that back of all the wage question is the cost of living. For this no local company is responsible. Until we have a downward readjustment of the tariff the wage question will remain a constant menace to industrial harmony.

NOTE and COMMENT

William Jennings Bryan will not come back.

With two Canadians in the Imperial Cabinet, imperial unity is brain-fostered.

We congratulate the town council on the immediate appointment of a Medical Health Officer. The health of the town is of prime importance.

Now when all the taxes are pouring in, why not make a reserve for the road to West Coleman? This road must be built.

The publicity committee of the town was very much alive this week. Five hundred copies of a most creditable Xmas edition were sent broadcast throughout Canada.

The world-wide disasters in Christmas week are like the skeleton at the feast. Always present.

When a local town paper at considerable inconvenience and expense takes the place of a whole publicity department, is it not worth while supporting it? In supporting it you are supporting yourself.

The greatest annual volume of business ever transacted in Coleman was done during 1910. A few industries would add much to the general wave of prosperity.

While poor old Ontario is freezing, while Manitoba is swept by wind and England in a deluge, Coleman enjoys the balmy spring weather that is a product of only salubrious climates.

More citizens should attend the council meetings and thereby gain an insight into some of the famous controversies on points of order.

IT'S NEWS WORTH GIVING TO THE WORLD

HOW RAVAGES OF KIDNEY DISEASE ARE CHECKED IN QUEBEC.

Mrs. Julien Painchaud, for seven years a sufferer, finds relief and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Whitworth, Temiscouata Co., Que. (Special).—With the coming of winter the ravages of Kidney Disease are again felt in this province, and the fact that a cure is vouchsafed in this village is well worth giving to the world. Mrs. Julien Painchaud is the person cured and she states without hesitation that she found her cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For seven years my heart and kidneys bothered me," Mrs. Painchaud states. "I was always tired and nervous. I could not sleep. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging sensation across the loins. My eyes had dark circles under them and were puffed and swollen. I was so ill I could hardly find myself around to do my housework."

A neighbor advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and I found relief in the first box. Six boxes made me perfectly well."

If you have any two of Mrs. Painchaud's symptoms your kidneys are diseased. Cure them and guard against serious, if not fatal results by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

A soft answer may not always turn away wrath, but it saves a lot of time.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the cause of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting in the work of the system. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. NERVE AGONIES

All Nervous Diseases Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Nerves that are over-worked or weak quickly indicate their distress by pain. First pain may be neuralgia or inflammation of the nerves, affecting the head, but often the spine and limbs. It may be nervous dyspepsia, easily started by worry, excitement or weakness. It may be St. Vitus dance, a common affliction among children, or neurasthenia, a condition of general nervous exhaustion accompanied by acute melancholy. Worst of all the pain may signal the early stages of paralysis or nervous decay. All these disorders signify that the hungry nerves are clamoring for nourishment in the form of good, rich blood. The numerous cures of the above named nervous diseases and weakness in both sexes by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are accounted for by the fact that these Pills actually make new, rich blood and so supply the starved nerves with the vital elements needed to strengthen them. Mr. Wm. G. Jones, Westmead, Man., says: "A few years ago it was my misfortune to suffer from nervous debility, brought about through severe attack of la grippe or influenza. When the first effects were felt I used to wake up in the middle of sleep trembling like a leaf, and in a bath of cold perspiration. Later the trouble grew so bad that I scarcely got a wink of sleep, and was unable to get about in bed, growing so weak that I feared for my life. A doctor was called in, and he said I was without avail. I became more and more low spirited, and without any apparent reason would have fits of crying. While in this condition, a nervous wreck, a pamphlet was given me telling what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had done for others, and I determined to give them a trial. By the time I had finished a few boxes I began to feel some relief, and this greatly encouraged me. Then my strength began to return, my nerves grew steadier, and in a few weeks more I was feeling as well as ever. I did in my life, and you may be sure I will always gratefully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to every one sick or ailing, as they restored me to health and strength after all other medicines had failed to do so."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LONG A MYSTERY.

Experts Could Not Agree on Material of a Celebrated Glass Vase.

In the British Museum in London, on exhibition is the Portland vase, the masterpiece of ancient glasswork. A chance discovery led to the rescue of this magnificent urn from the grave, where it had lain for hundreds of years hidden and unknown.

The vase was found early in the seventeenth century by some laborers, who, digging on a hillside in the neighborhood of Rome, broke into a large vault.

On further examination it revealed a suite of three sepulchral chambers. In the largest room they found a finely sculptured sarcophagus, which contained the beautiful vase. It was full of ashes, but it bore inscription as to the remains it held, nor has the mystery ever been solved which shrouds its origin.

The vase was deposited in the Barberini Palace, where it remained until 1770, when the representative of the Barberini family, Bonaparte prince, was forced to part with it to pay her gambling debts. The vase changed hands twice, then was sold to the Duke of Portland, but with such secrecy that her own family was not aware of the transaction until after her death.

At the sale of the Duchess of Portland's collection it was purchased by her son, the Duke of Devonshire, for the sum of $5,145, and it was deposited in the museum of his successor. The vase was wankily enshrined in pieces of a drunken visitor, but the fragments were, however, joined together, but the bottom, with its mysterious inscription in Phrygian characters, was not replaced.

The material of this vase was long about the great puzzle as to the story it illustrates. Brevol, refers to it as "the famous vase of chalcidion." Mission calls it an agate, Barlet and others correctly decided that it was made of glass. The blue body was first formed, and while still red, coated over as far as the bas reliefs were intended to reach with semiprecious white glass. The delicate figures being disposed of, cut down to the blue ground in the same manner as with real cameos.

Telephone Girl's Record.

For a period of six years, which terminated only a day or two ago, Farnham, Surrey, England, had a telephone operator, a girl who never made mistakes or lost her temper. She was not the only operator at the Farnham exchange, but the knowledge that she might be the one who would answer a call made the London Daily Mail.

But there is gloom among the telephone users of Farnham, for the girl has got married—to a young man who used to listen to her voice over the telephone wires.

Miss Lilla Patrick was the opera house manager of the new theatre just before her wedding the Farnham telephone subscribers remembered that she had been married for whole six years and had presided over the plugs and lines of the Farnham Exchange had since been married.

She was a woman of light, so a record not to be passed over lightly, so the Farnham subscribers subscribed again, this time for Miss Lilla Patrick, and presented her with $50 and their good wishes for a happy married life.

She received in addition many other separate wedding presents from telephone users.

"We shall never see her like again," said the subscribers who headed the list, in a tone of regret. "She always spoke politely, was obliging and courteous, and never made a mistake in her numbers, never cut you off too soon, never put you on the wrong number, never snarped at you, would never when your number was on, and finally, she had a charming voice."

The manager of the Farnham Exchange speaks thus of Miss Patrick: "Her record in the service of the company was unblemished. Never was a mistake made by her. She was a wonderful operator."

In the matter of naval construction; but the navies of the world have been making glass shields for a long time.

And in the past few weeks several startling announcements have been put forward. Within a few days we had talk of motor-driven battleships, and a report of a coming small destroyer, of a height only 36 inches above the water, and with only two guns, but of such power and rapidity of fire that the money spent on Dreadnoughts and super-Dreadnoughts might as well have been thrown into the sea.

Within a few days we had talk of motor-driven battleships, and a report of a coming small destroyer, of a height only 36 inches above the water, and with only two guns, but of such power and rapidity of fire that the money spent on Dreadnoughts and super-Dreadnoughts might as well have been thrown into the sea.

And in the past few weeks several startling announcements have been put forward. He Did Not Need a Wife.

Kansas newspapers are getting a lot of pleasure out of this incident, which is said to have actually happened in an eastern Kansas county. A farmer received a note from a young man who had been "going with" his daughter. It read: "Dear Sir: Wood like you doctors, have a marriage. She and me are in love. I think I needs a wife. Yours truly."

The farmer replied by letter, saying: "Friend: You don't need a wife. You need a spelling book! Get one and study it a year. Then write me again."—Kansas City Journal.

"Madam, if you had a child to weep over," suggested the lawyer, "the all-power might be bigger."

"But I have none."

"At least you have a dog?"

"Yes, no."

"Then there's nothing else to do. We'll have to take the rubber plant into court."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"See here, my dear sir! Didn't I tell you not to drink with your meals?"

"But, doctor, he reasonable. Have to eat some time."

Often what appear to be the most trivial matters in life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in most serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickel's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

Some excuses are so thin that a blind man can see through them.

"Why?" asked his father. "Because that's where the funny-bone is."

A Cure for Rheumatism.—A painful and persistent form of rheumatism is caused by impurities in the blood, the result of defective action of the liver and kidneys. The blood becomes tainted by the introduction of uric acid, which causes much pain in the muscles and in the joints. Parnele's Vegetable Pills are known to have of this curable condition. Their use is strongly recommended. A trial of them will convince anyone of their value.

Mrs. Dresser was looking over the girl's bill.

"How many pounds are there in a peck, Henry?" she asked.

Her husband looked up from his newspaper.

"Are you trying to figure out the weight of your latest cologne, my dear?" he asked.

Official Ignorance.

One of the best of the many stories of English official ignorance of the colonies is recalled by P. A. Silburn in "The Governance of Empire." Lord Palmerston was forming a new Ministry and in a preliminary council was arranging its composition. He had filled up all the portfolios with the exception of the Colonial Office. First name and then another was suggested and thrown aside. At last he said to Sir Arthur Helpa: "I suppose I must take the thing myself. You upstairs with me and show me where these places are on the maps."

Like many another young author, Mr. W. E. Norris is attracting much attention, because his literary career by his own admission is a success. The story was at once accepted, and this success determined Mr. Norris to abandon a legal career, for which he was originally intended, and try literature. To-day he is one of Britain's most popular novelists. "Matrimony," his last, being, in the opinion of many, the best story he ever wrote. Mr. Norris lives in a beautiful house at Torquay with his daughter, who is his constant companion. His sister is Lady Havelock.

Too Late.

After the guests had waited for half an hour in a Berkshire church for the bride to arrive messengers were dispatched to the lively stable to try to discover what had happened. The messenger came to a stable door that he had omitted to send a carriage to her house, acknowledged that all the horses were in the stable, and suggested that he should proceed to remedy the delay he failed to see their position.

"What'll be the use of 'fetchin' 'er now?" he argued. The service "ll be 'arf over."—London Globe.

Accidental Discharge of a Pun.

A capital pun may arise by pure accident, as recorded in Buckle's "Anecdotes of the Nineteenth Century."

"A Mr. Alexander Gun was dismissed from a post in the customs of Edinburgh for circulating a false rumor. The dismissal is said to have been thus noted in the customs book at the time, 'A. Gun, discharged for making a false report.'

A LAND OF MANY TRIBES.

India's Races Outnumber Tribes on the American Hemisphere.

Hindustan has more nations than the continent of Europe, and more races than you will find on the hemisphere of the Americas. Every locality has its own tribes and peculiar castes, and here and there are peoples of whom the descendants of the ancient Sages know nothing, writes Frank G. Carpenter.

There is one great class known as jungle people. They live in the woods and are about as savage as the tribes of the Congo. They believe in witches and witch doctors and make their earth their gods. There are a part of their worship. These people are generally known as Animists and they number 8,000,000 or 9,000,000. They live in all sorts of ways, feeding largely on wild berries and fruits, and dwelling in caves or temporary huts, which they leave when they seek a new location.

In the eastern Himalayas are the Nagas, the descendants of the ancient Sages worshippers. They are head hunters and now and then raid the colonies in southern India are the Yanadis, who support themselves on brushwood, and who support themselves on jungle fruits and wild honey. They are as shy as our Negroes and will run at the sight of a white man.

The upper Himalayas are spotted with non-Aryan tribes, whose ancestors were trusted back by our ancestors over 3,000 years ago, but who still exist. There are hill men in Assam who have no method of telling distances, but who measure the length of a journey by the amount of beef leaf they can chew on the way. There are tribes who paint their faces like our Indians, and many who tattoo and adorn themselves in various ways. The Nagas stretch the lobes of the ear and pierce it in such a way that it forms a ring of flesh three or four inches in diameter. They also pierce the ear so that it looks like a great lump of flesh.

These Nagas are Mongols and number about 1,000,000. The largest of their tribes is the Angami, who have lately come under British subjection. The Angami believe they were the first people on earth, and say that they sprang from the earth. They call the earth their only master, and worship it. Their homes are villages surrounded by stockades and surrounded by thorn bushes and rattles. They come into them through suikets, the entrances being protected by doors. Each tribe has its chief, and the people have a blood brotherhood, like some of the African tribes.

Another of the Nagas divisions is known as the Ache. These people were once notorious slave holders, and they sacrificed the slaves which they caught to the gods. They are now, however, until recently were head hunters and did not scruple to entertain guests and slay them when off guard.

Uncle Tom's Cabin

The managers of Mason Bros. Uncle Tom's Cabin company which will appear at the Coleman Opera House Jan. 5th. have made a radical departure this season from the methods pursued by most companies playing this popular drama inasmuch as they dispensed with the customary street parade and confine the outside advertising to simply a band concert at noon. Managers heretofore have practically given the best part of the performance on the street introducing dogs, donkeys, and ponies that play no part in the production. The dramatic strength of the company suffered in consequence.

There are no brass band actors with Mason Bros. company, but instead a cast of high calared and capable performers who give a complete and convincing presentation of this greatest of all American dramas. The uniformly large audience and the favorable comments received at every place visited has proven conclusively that the theatregoers appreciate the efforts of the management in presenting the play with the best talent obtainable.
